        <cdwa:descriptiveNote>The Seikilos stele comes from Smyrna in western Turkey, which in antiquity was Greek territory. It is a monument from the 1st century AD. and on the preserved item is a twelve line long inscription. Five lines mention the man who dedicated the stele, Seikilos, while the remaining seven lines are a little poem with musical notations in the form of letters and symbols between the lines. The bottom line is damaged, mentioning a woman named Euterpe; it may give an indication of who the stele was a monument for. The inscription tells us nothing about Seikilos himself, so it is not known who or what he was.</cdwa:descriptiveNote>
